

observable...
The Museum's collection of pathological gross tissue is one of the largest in the world and examples of conditions now rarely found because of modern medical advances and access to care. These specimens demonstrate how the body is affected by injury and disease in the absence of medical intervention. As a result, they are becoming an increasingly valuable educational tool for the medical community and the public.

Scout Day

Saturday, October 19
10 A.M. - 12 P.M.

Join us for a morning of specialized activities for Scouts. Scouts will visit activity stations focused on first-aid badge requirements including triage, outdoor injuries, medical response, first-aid kits, and emergency responders. This program is free and open to everyone! Recommended for all ages.

NATIONAL MUSEUM OF HEALTH AND MEDICINE

2500 Linden Lane, Silver Spring, MD 20910
(301) 319-3300 www.medicalmuseum.health.mil
X f @MedicalMuseum

Request ADA accommodations 10 business days in advance at (301) 319-3303 or by email here:

